

AI Lead Qualification

Automatically review, qualify and prioritise new sales enquiries before your team follows up.

Turn new enquiries into clear, prioritised sales opportunities.

A potential customer gets in touch. The work has only started.

Businesses can receive enquiries from several places, and each one creates work for the sales team.

As volume grows, sales teams can spend a significant amount of time:

- reviewing enquiries manually
- identifying which opportunities deserve attention first
- transferring useful information into sales systems
- organising follow-up
- keeping relevant team members informed

Your sales team should spend more time with potential customers and less time on repetitive qualification work.

Designed for B2B teams that receive regular sales enquiries and spend time manually reviewing, prioritising and organising follow-up.

From manual qualification to a clearer sales process

WITHOUT AUTOMATION

New enquiries require someone to review the information, decide what deserves attention, update the sales system and organise the next step.

Review the information

Decide what deserves attention

Update the sales system

Organise the next step

WITH LUMBE TECH

The initial work happens automatically.

Each enquiry is qualified and prioritised, relevant context reaches the sales system, and the team can be alerted when an opportunity needs attention.

1 New enquiry

2 Qualification

3 Prioritisation

4 CRM / sales context

5 Follow-up action

6 Team notification

Your team starts each follow-up with the context already prepared.

Start processing an enquiry when it arrives

Potential customers can reach a business through a website, contact form, landing page or another connected channel, depending on the company's setup.

Once the source is connected, a new enquiry can enter the qualification process without anyone copying information from one system to another.

IN THIS EXAMPLE

Danny Lumbe from Northstar Logistics submits an enquiry. The message explains that the team qualifies incoming enquiries manually, and asks to automate qualification and prioritisation and discuss next steps.

YOUR QUESTION:

We use HubSpot and receive around 200 sales enquiries every month. Our team still qualifies them manually, which is slowing down follow-up. We want to automate lead qualification and prioritisation and would like to get started this month. Can we discuss pricing, implementation and next steps?

Send

The enquiry is submitted through a website contact form.

Example configuration. Northstar Logistics is a fictional company used for demonstration purposes throughout this guide. Client implementations are configured around the company's own sales process and supported business tools.

Understand the opportunity before your team follows up

1 ENQUIRY ENTERS THE PROCESS

The enquiry enters a controlled intake process. Basic checks help prevent duplicate processing before the relevant customer record is found or updated.

2 QUALIFICATION BEGINS

The system reviews the enquiry for useful sales signals and prepares the result for prioritisation.

Signs of buying intent

Urgency

Strength of the opportunity

Give different opportunities the attention they deserve

Not every enquiry deserves the same level of attention. The system helps place each one into a priority level, so the team can see where to start.

Priority rules and actions are configured around your sales process. For example, a HIGH-priority opportunity may trigger an immediate notification, while a MEDIUM-priority opportunity may create a CRM follow-up task. These are choices made during implementation, not fixed behaviour.

HIGH PRIORITY

A strong opportunity that may need quick attention.

MEDIUM PRIORITY

A potential opportunity that may need follow-up or more information.

LOW PRIORITY

An enquiry that currently needs less immediate attention.

IN THIS EXAMPLE

An enquiry from Danny Lumbe at Northstar Logistics describes a clear business problem, asks about pricing and next steps, and shows urgency to start this quarter. It receives HIGH priority.

Each enquiry is scored and routed to a high, medium or low priority path.

Task Notes

Lumbe Tech lead qualification requires human follow-up. Score: 13. Qualification confidence: 0.9. Recommended action: SALES_FOLLOW_UP.

Created by the Lumbe Tech workflow.

The qualification result becomes useful sales context inside the CRM, while the appropriate follow-up action can be created for the team.

HubSpot is shown as an example CRM. The qualification note and follow-up task shown here were created by the Lumbe Tech workflow, not by HubSpot. Client implementations are configured around the company's own sales process and supported business tools.

Bring important opportunities to the right people

A strong opportunity is more useful when the right person knows about it. When an enquiry meets the configured high-priority criteria, the relevant team can be notified through the company's communication or notification tools.

In this example, the HIGH-priority result triggers a Slack notification with the score, recommended action and the reason. A response draft is stored in the HubSpot note for human review, and no email is sent automatically.

Automation supports the sales team

Your team stays in control. We automate the repetitive work, not the final relationship with your customer.

AUTOMATION CAN ASSIST WITH

- Intake
- Qualification
- Prioritisation
- CRM updates
- Follow-up preparation
- Internal notifications

YOUR PEOPLE STAY RESPONSIBLE FOR

- Judgement where required
- Customer relationships
- Final sales conversations
- Sensitive or exceptional decisions

The workflow does not send a customer-facing response automatically. A response can be prepared as a draft for human review.

Built around the way your business already works

Companies do not all receive enquiries through the same channels or manage sales in the same tools.

Lumbe Tech starts by understanding the existing process:

- where new enquiries come from
- how prospects are currently qualified
- which CRM or sales tools the team uses
- what makes an opportunity important to the business
- who should follow up
- what information the team needs to act

IN YOUR BUSINESS

We first look at the channels, sales tools and internal process your team already uses, then determine what can be connected and automated.

The workflow uses your own connected business accounts where applicable, with scoped access during implementation.

A better way to handle new sales enquiries

Lumbe Tech is designed to reduce repetitive qualification work and give sales teams clearer information before they follow up.

LESS MANUAL QUALIFICATION WORK

Reduce repetitive review and data entry so the team can focus on conversations.

CLEARER PRIORITISATION

See which opportunities may deserve attention first.

USEFUL SALES CONTEXT

Qualification information reaches the CRM or sales system your team already uses.

STRUCTURED FOLLOW-UP

An appropriate follow-up action can be created for the team.

FASTER VISIBILITY OF IMPORTANT OPPORTUNITIES

High-priority enquiries can be brought to the right people.

HUMAN CONTROL WHERE IT MATTERS

People stay responsible for customer communication and commercial decisions.
